CLASS: Creative Writing

INSTRUCTOR: Ellen Engelke

Welcome to Creative Writing at Torrance Cultural Arts Center. We're going to have a great class!

Here are some things you'll need:

- A notebook, loose leaf, with lined paper and dividers
- Pens or pencils and erasers
- Access to a computer

Please bring your notebook and pens, pencils, and erasers to class every week. Also, when you're learning to write fiction, it's important to read stories like the ones you want to write. Bring your free reading book to class each week as well.

I will be working with people individually as well as in a group. I will also have each of you learn to critique each other's work because it's important to learn how to give and take constructive criticism when you are learning to be a writer. Other people's opinions DO matter because they are who will be reading your work; however, we must learn how to critique without being critical. Everyone wants to feel good about their work – focus on what is working and see if you can bring the rest up to meet it.

Good Luck and Happy Writing!
