

TORRANCE CENTENARIAN PROGRAM

A Century of Resilience: Margaret H. Partsch Honored at Council Meeting

During a city council meeting on January 9, the community came together to honor and celebrate the extraordinary life of Mrs. Margaret H. Partsch, a centenarian whose resilience and strength have left a permanent mark on all who know her. Born December of 1923, in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Margaret's journey has been shaped by the challenges of World War II and the pursuit of a better life in California. Her unwavering support and encouragement propelled her three children to academic success, with all graduating from prestigious institutions, a testament to Margaret's dedication to her family's future.

From her selfless dedication as a payroll clerk for the Torrance Unified School District to her active involvement in senior activities, Margaret's zest for life and love for her community shine brightly. As she continues her journey at Coleman Court Senior Housing, Margaret's presence serves as an inspiration to all, embodying the spirit of resilience and determination that defines her remarkable life.
